Masury, Ohio – February 7, 2018 – Specialty Strip & Oscillating, Inc., a supplier of conventional slit and oscillate coils, located at 1262 Standard Avenue, announces new slitter capabilities.

These new slitter capabilities expand the services and precise slitting that Specialty Strip & Oscillating already offers to their clients. Specialty Strip manufactures coils that can run 20 to 25 miles continuously, allowing manufacturers to run a coil uninterrupted for 10 to 15 times longer than with the conventional ribbon-wound coils. This can eliminate downtime and coil end scrap loss.

One of the new capabilities is processing steel coils to .003” gauge. Prior to these new capabilities, Specialty Strip could process coils down to .008” gauge. In addition to the new gauge, they can also process steel coils to a .250” width.

Specialty Strip & Oscillating, Inc. is a supplier of conventional slit and oscillate coils in cold-rolled low carbon, high carbon, alloy and stainless steel. They provide coils with 20 to 25 miles of continuous strip with capabilities to process up to 2-1/2” in width and a coil weight of 5,000 lbs.

Further capabilities include welds annealed and ground, slit and duburred, as well as straight patterned coil walls coiled on steel liners, fiber cores, and spools. Finishes are achieved through Galvalume, hot dip galvanizing, electro-galvanizing, galvannealing, and prepainting in cold-rolled strip and sheet. Customers can run a coil uninterrupted for 10 to 15 times longer than conventional ribbon-wound coils. This eliminates downtime, coil end scrap loss, coil telescoping, and tangling—increasing savings, efficiency, and productivity. To place an order for oscillated or ribbon wound coils, call President Adam von Philp at 866-658-5282, email generalinfo@specialtystrip.com or visit specialtystrip.com for more information.
